The Secretary of War and Mr. Blair.

(Correspondence of the N. Y. Times.)

[illegible] of Mont[gomery] Blair upon Secretary Stanton is having [illegible] in calling [illegible] triumphant [illegible] of the character and services of a really great and patriotic statesman. Colonel [illegible] an intelligent correspondent [illegible] have furnished contributions to a vindication [illegible] still, however incomplete; for if it were ever essential to a Government that it should have the right man in the right place, [illegible] to having stood first in the Cabinet of Buchanan, and next in Lincoln's Cabinet.

There is somewhere in Maryland a supposititious locality where Blair [illegible] to find "fellow citizens" to whom he injects imaginary speeches. These fictions enable him to get long winded [illegible] and the newspapers, one of which garnished with flaming headlines appeared in the [illegible], and the introductory expletive to the [illegible] Blair says:

"It is apparent, from the whole course of public affairs, that Seward acted in concert with Buchanan's Administration during the last three months of his term. He was, no doubt, advised, the [illegible] Stanton, who was in Buchanan's Cabinet, of the policy it had adopted in reference to the seizure of everything that appertained to the nation in the South. It was to the coalition then formed between Seward and Stanton that the latter became Secretary of War to Lincoln. He apprised Seward of this treaty of the War and Navy Departments, under Buchanan, to make no resistance to the policy of dissolving the Union—to offer no coercion to impede its march to independence;—and Seward's course shows that he approved and adopted this policy. Is it not strange that Seward should have kept that paralysis on the country from the 4th of March to the 12th of April, when the conflagration of Sumter aroused the people?"

This treason—for such is the charge—was committed, if at all, before Lincoln came into office. Why did Blair not only conceal it, but sit there with Seward in the Cabinet, claiming, all the while, to be Seward's friend and champion, quarreling with others, but even furiously supporting Seward? But the charges are untrue—infamously untrue.

The truth is that the first and paramount design of the secession leaders was to obtain, before or on the 4th of March, by coup d'etat, possession of the capital with the sanction of the Government. That design was thwarted by Stanton. As a member of Buchanan's Cabinet, he became informed of the treasonable objects of his colleagues, Cobb, Thompson and Toucey, and of the imbecility at least of the President. Placing himself in confidential communication with Seward, Stanton went to his watch and his work boldly and sagaciously. Traitors were by degrees weeded out of the Cabinet, and their vacant seats given to General Dix and Judge Holt, who co-operated with Stanton and Seward in preserving the Government. The 4th of March approached, amid treasons and conspiracies in the highest places. Washington was without doubt disloyal. A conspiracy to assassinate Lincoln at Baltimore was discovered and thwarted. On the occasion of the inauguration, General Scott had scarcely more than 2,000 troops for the defense of the Capital. The danger was imminent. But the chief traitors had been ejected from the Cabinet. Their plans were disconcerted. Lincoln was inaugurated and the Government prevailed! For that Government's salvation the people and the Union are indebted to the Roman virtues of Edwin M. Stanton.

It was, I doubt not, owing to the "coalition then formed between Seward and Stanton," that the latter was called into Lincoln's Cabinet. Such [illegible] try men's souls. The life of a nation was in the issue. It was saved as "a brand from the burning." The struggle bound Stanton and Seward together with "hooks of steel."

During the five or six weeks that Stanton was striving to preserve the Capital, though in constant communication through a trusty third party, Stanton and Seward never met. When the danger was over and the day of rejoicing came, Stanton supped with Seward. I was present, meeting Stanton then for the first time. Confidence had been established between those eminent men while engaged as counsel many years ago, in an important and protracted trial, in Michigan, I believe. But it was then, and there that I learned how large a debt of gratitude we owed to Edwin M. Stanton, before the rebellion broke out.

And how immensely has that debt been augmented by his three years of indomitable industry, inflexible integrity, high courage and devoted patriotism in the War Department? With a War Secretary deficient in any of these great qualities, our trials, always serious, would have become perilous indeed. But with a man at the head of the War Department whose courage and capacity rose with and triumphed over every disaster, all was safe.

Yet with a personal knowledge of the utter falsehood of his charges, Montgomery Blair, who was a "common scold" in the Cabinet, and a political nuisance everywhere, is engaged in traducing, or endeavoring to traduce, Secretary Stanton. Of Secretary Seward, Blair says:

"Seward, it seems, made no direct reply to a letter of Judge Campbell referring to the pledges he communicated to him to the Confederate Commissioners, and stating to him that the pledge to evacuate Fort Sumter is less forcible than the words you employed.' These words were, 'Before this letter reaches you (a proposed letter by me to President Davis) Sumter will have been evacuated.' Seward did, however, in an authorized statement in the Albany Evening Journal, by Thurlow Weed, admit that he, 'Governor Seward, conversed freely with Judge Campbell, [illegible] do not deny, nor do we doubt, that in these conversations at one period, he intimated that Fort Sumter would be evacuated. He certainly believed so, founding his opinion on his knowledge of General Scott's recommendation.'"

Seward has endured, as is his habit, much of misapprehension and obloquy, in reference to this question, without reply. I shall content myself now with saying that a few days will entirely clear away the mists which have rendered it obscure, placing the responsibility, with the reasons for his action, where it belongs.

In allusion to Blair's unfounded slanders that, according to Seward, played fast and against the Union, Colonel Forney, knowing how much friendship the ex-Postmaster General professed for Governor Seward, remarks that he "does not know when he took offense." I can give the information. He did, [illegible] when an adroit lawyer, [illegible] Colonel [illegible] Blair was not appointed Chief Justice. Blair says that Seward could have made him Chief Justice, but he did not, and hence the [illegible] assertions and hence these tirades of personal abuse.

THURLOW WEED.

[illegible]—When a Frenchman is crossed in love, he shrugs his shoulders and [illegible]; an Englishman or American goes a soldiering, [illegible] takes to lager beer and an Irishman to whisky; a negro gets furiously jealous; [illegible] Spaniard or Italian becomes a bandit and [illegible]. These are the characteristic national manifestations in cases of disappointed love. Suicide was then the only remedy [illegible] Charley, the Chinaman. He loved Fung Loy, and she had a husband who wasn't [illegible] the husband's credit [illegible] the original cost of Fung Loy, for Chinamen buy and sell their wives even in our own midst; and he tried to make her believe that it would be a very proper way for him to [illegible] what was due him, by taking her as payment in full. The woman did not see it in that light. Charley bought poison—enough [illegible] he would drink of it, he would die [illegible] and his debt would be paid by their [illegible]. As it appeared that he would [illegible] drink first, take a guy [illegible] he was finally [illegible] and then Fung Loy changed her mind. In the words [illegible] Charley taken [illegible] So Charley died for a heartless woman's sake, and she still lives to gladden her husband's [illegible]. Such is life among [illegible] and a verdict in [illegible].

[illegible] McCarthy, late Deputy Head Centre of the Fenian Brotherhood, and President of the Fenian Central [illegible] died on Thursday at Minneapolis, Minnesota. Mr. McCarthy was at one time connected with the press in New York City, and afterwards a prominent newspaper man in the West. He was a vigorous writer.

Important Letter from Secretary Harlan—The Position of President Johnson on Negro Suffrage.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON (D. C.) Aug. 26, 1865.

George B. Edmonds, Clermont, Iowa—Dear Sir: I have just received your letter of the 21st inst. stating, among other things, that the Union State Convention of Iowa has adopted as a plank in its platform a recommendation in favor of negro suffrage, that the Copperhead Convention has indorsed President Johnson's policy for the reorganization of the Southern States, assuming it to be in opposition to negro suffrage; that this is, in your opinion, the issue joined between the two parties in Iowa; that heretofore the Union party has derived valuable aid from me in support of its principles; that you regret, however, to observe a newspaper report of a speech recently made by me which places me, as you think, in antagonism with its present principles and policy, which gives you pain.

In reply, I have to say that if your opinion was well founded, it would be a cause of greater pain to me than to yourself; but I beg leave respectfully to state that you misapprehend the position of President Johnson and my own, as well as that of the Union party at large. The real question at issue, in a national point of view, is not whether negroes shall be permitted to vote, but whether they shall derive that authority from the National Government, or from the State Government respectively.

President Johnson maintains the doctrine that the Constitution of the United States does not confer on the Federal Government the right to interfere, primarily, with the question of suffrage in any State of the Union; that this question may arise, and properly be decided by Congress, when Senators and members present themselves for admission to seats in that body, under the clause of the Constitution, which makes each house the exclusive judge of the qualifications and elections of members, and that other clause of the Constitution of the United States which provides that "the United States shall guarantee to every State in the Union a republican form of government." I infer that if any State should adopt a law on the subject of suffrage, which would clearly show the State Government to be other than republican, it would be the duty of Congress to reject applicants for seats; and to adopt whatever legislative remedies would, in their judgment, be necessary to carry out the guarantee of the Constitution.

That the State of Iowa may take steps to extend the right of suffrage, is not, as it seems to me, in conflict with this policy, and, consequently, those who support the policy of the President on this subject are not in antagonism with the platform of the Union party of Iowa.

The Union party of that State proposes that the State shall modify its own Constitution, so as to include as electors, persons who have not, under its present provisions, the right to vote. This, as President Johnson maintains, a State may do, but that the General Government would have no right to require Iowa, or any other State, to modify its own Constitution, on this, or any other subject, when not in conflict with the Constitution of the United States.

If I should be in Iowa when the question is submitted to the people, if it shall be so submitted by the Legislature, I would vote to extend the right to all classes of persons possessing the requisite intelligence and patriotism, to be intrusted with a participation in the management of public affairs, State or national, without regard to their nationality, as I do not believe that the liberty of any class of people can be considered safe who are to be permanently deprived of the exercise of this right.

I do not disguise these opinions; you may therefore make what use of this letter you may deem proper. I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES HARLAN.

GENERAL BUTLER.—Major General [illegible] F. Butler offered his resignation to the President, a few weeks since, says the Syracuse Journal, and begged him to accept it, saying that he wished to close his affairs with the Government and settle down to the practice of law in New York. The President declined acceding to the request, observing that his present reconstruction policy was an experiment which might fail, and if it did, he wanted General Butler to go South and assist in trying some other.

SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 13, 1866.

A Through Mail from Salt Lake

[illegible] to California [illegible] time [illegible] Salt Lake [illegible] Boise and Walla Walla [illegible] less quicker time can be made direct from Salt Lake than we understand is now made by those who carry the through mail from that point to [illegible].

But while we agree that it is highly important that we should receive our overland mail from Salt Lake [illegible] we cannot think with the [illegible] that it would be well to give up our daily service to California and rely on a weekly mail to that State, putting our main dependence on the overland line from Salt Lake. The people of Oregon are vitally interested in keeping up every [illegible] of the closest [illegible] communication with California. We know that at present we are to a great extent dependent on that State as regards every kind of business and trade, and we know further more that this condition of things has often resulted to our disadvantage. But it seems to be in the nature of things that we as the weaker and less wealthy community should endure this to some extent until we grow powerful enough to overcome the opposition of California to our interests. To a certain extent we can overcome the hostility and every step with [illegible] an improvement in this respect. As regards our mails it is all the more important that we should receive them with expedition from California as from the East. Even if our overland mail should come direct from Salt Lake we should suffer great inconvenience without a daily service to California. We should be glad to have the mail carried through on fast time from Salt Lake to Portland, but we do not think it wise to exchange our daily mail to California even for this very important service.

Enterprise.—The prospectus of the [illegible] Review published a week or two before the paper was issued, gave us to understand that the proprietors of the new journal were intending to [illegible] Eastern dispatches by telegraph and publish them in advance of the other papers up the valley. It turns out, however, that the Review [illegible] all its telegrams from the Oregonian, just as every other Oregon paper, except perhaps the Statesman, has long done. Some of these papers give us credit for the news we furnish them, while several others parade the "telegraphic dispatches" with as much display as if they were sent specially to them, thus endeavoring to make their readers believe that they are getting the latest news. Now the Oregonian is the only journal in the State that receives and pays for the Eastern news as it is the only paper which publishes the dispatches entire. The other papers, including the Statesman, depend wholly upon this journal for their news. They all get their boasted "telegraphic dispatches" second hand. Since the Oregonian takes the dispatches, of course it publishes them in advance of all other papers. The enterprise of the balance of the Oregon journals consist merely in copying the news from us.

Sympathy for Wirz.—Is it not about time asks the St. Louis Democrat, that the Copperheads were getting ready to begin their wail over Wirz, the wholesale murderer of the Andersonville prisoners? We think it is. Wirz would seem to be the next subject entitled to their sympathy. He is certainly in a fair way of becoming a martyr to his political sentiments. Judging from the evidence so far published, he is perfectly good for the hanging. Let the Copperheads, therefore, prepare themselves for a long boo hoo on his account. Let them lay in an extra supply of cambric, and pump up their tears in double quantity ready for the flow. Wirz is their man.

No Such Thing as Treason.—The Review of this week re-publishes a long letter said to have been written to President Johnson by "George Count Joannes," whoever this titled blockhead may be. The letter is devoted to showing that those who were engaged in the late rebellion committed no treason. The "Count" says: "It is not treason to make war upon this Government and attempt to destroy it." His "argument" is of a piece with this wonderful proposition. And this is political pabulum which the Review presents for the instruction of its readers! Is it any wonder that the traitors' party has been so strong from the time the great conspiracy first begun?

The Chico Route.—DuBell & Co's Fast Freight Line, between Umatilla and Idaho, has "played hob" with Chico. The Umatilla Advertiser says the advocates of Chico have one by one dropped off until the field is left to the Owyhee Avalanche. South Boise gave our road fits when it was a hard road to travel from melting snow, but was the only passable road to Idaho at the time, and he had to travel it. He held the California road up to view as the cheapest route to use for transportation to Idaho. For some time past he has failed to be heard. He is doubtless preparing for another season's work, and we shall hear from him at a time when traveling is difficult by the Columbia route, and impossible by the Chico route.

Ledges of Montana.—The mines of Montana are not confined to placer diggings. A correspondent furnishes us with a list of [illegible] lately discovered in the vicinity of Helena. The most valuable are named [illegible] Lake, Davis, Buckingham, Robbins, Holmes, Iametta and Vault, a few feet in either of which would insure a fortune to the holder. The average width of ledges there is given at eight feet. The veins vary from [illegible] feet to twenty.

Jackson County Finances.—The annual report of the Clerk of Jackson county, just submitted to the public, [illegible] $17,707 [illegible] County Fund receipts for the year ending September [illegible] 1866. The expenditures for the same time were $13,211 11. The [illegible] of delinquent [illegible] indebtedness [illegible]

Grist Mill.—The [illegible]. The Dalles Lumber and Manufacturing Company have in process of erection a grist mill at their establishment on [illegible] street. The [illegible] machinery arrived last night and in about twenty days the Company will be ready to manufacture [illegible] chantable flour. For some time past the [illegible] pending the arrival of the machinery [illegible] corn meal and chopping feed. [illegible]

Prosperity of Napa County.—[illegible] county is steadily growing in wealth and population. [illegible] new comers have [illegible] of farms [illegible] this advance.

[illegible] with the Missouri river [illegible]

The largest class of Missouri boats can run to Fort Benton [illegible] the commencement of the low water [illegible] consumes all of the navigable season. Now, this is far from proving the impracticability of navigation [illegible]

[illegible] Helena, [illegible] possible to construct a wagon road or a good pack trail.

From the Coeur d'Alene Mission to the crossing of the Bitter Root, a distance of seventy [illegible] miles, the road follows the rivers St. Regis Borgia and Coeur d'Alene. The pass is hardly wide enough for the road, and in many places Capt. Mullan was obliged [illegible] the bed of the streams. The crossings number one hundred and forty six, many of which were bridged, but in every instance the bridges have been partially and in most entirely destroyed by floods, which would be the case if they were rebuilt every year. The sun does not penetrate the narrow chasm sufficient to dry the mud in any season, [illegible] blocked up with fallen timber, worn and washed by the rains, it presents altogether a most disagreeable aspect to the traveler. From the Mission to the Bitter Root, grass is found, and that by driving the animals up winding paths to the tops of the mountains. Some more feasible route must be found. [illegible] to the most practicable route, but as the Pen d'Oreille Lake will afford means of getting through the range of mountains and obviate the difficulties of the route via Mullan's road, I should favor the enterprise which some [illegible] citizens have undertaken to introduce steam communication from the foot of that Lake. The nearest practicable point on the Columbia, I am informed, is White's Bluffs. If a good road exists as has been stated from that landing to Hayne's ferry, you have certainly nothing to oppose you in enjoying the trade of the very best mining district in the world.

The gulches on the western slope are Carpenter's, Ophir, McClellan's and many others, the names of which I do not know. I would advise your people not to go there this late in the season, they would do nothing, perhaps, and be placed in a bad situation for the winter, but as many as choose to go in the spring will probably find good opportunities for making money.

Yours, [illegible] C. DOW.

MEETING OF THE COMMON COUNCIL.—The regular weekly meeting of the Common Council was held at the Chamber last evening, Mayor Failing, [illegible].

The following members were present: Messrs. Corbett, Morgan, McCraken, Lownsdale, Plummer, Rosenbaum and Schuyler.

Mr. W. R. Thompson, successor to Mr. [illegible], having qualified, took his seat.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Mayor Failing submitted a communication returning disapproved an ordinance authorizing the Street Commissioner to contract for the construction of a sewer on Salmon street, to the west side of Third street. And communication [illegible] vetoed. Also an ordinance providing for [illegible] compensation of the City Treasurer. With the [illegible] of a large deficiency at the close of the fiscal year, the Mayor did not think any increased compensation should be allowed city officers until it is found that the duties cannot be faithfully performed for the sum now provided by [illegible]. The veto was sustained.

More than two thirds of the property owners on Washington street petitioned for the improvement of that street by McAdamizing, and the work will be immediately authorized.

Further time than is specified in the contract of Mr. Taylor for the completion of the [illegible] on Front street, and by Mr. Daniel Wright for construction of sewers, were granted.

[illegible] licenses to retail spirituous liquors were granted to saloon-keepers.

[illegible] were authorized on liquidated claims against the city as follows: To A. Loomis, [illegible] & Ham, $675; J. J. [illegible], [illegible] L. Hoyt, $261 [illegible], H. L. Pittock, $[illegible]; [illegible], $19.

[illegible] ordinance authorizing the purchase of a [illegible] Engine for Company No. 1, passed a [illegible] reading.

[illegible] PASSAGE BOAT DIRECT TO THE PACIFIC.—The New York Tribune, of late date, gives a description of the new screw steamer Montana, Capt. J. R. Kelly, which recently left New York for San Francisco direct, [illegible] at Rio Janeiro and Valparaiso to coal and passengers. [illegible] is the first vessel ever put up in New [illegible] passenger boat for a coasting voyage [illegible] length, being nearly 20,000 miles in extent. [illegible] says—

[illegible] of persons took passage for the purpose of [illegible] the delightful trip so seldom offered, of a [illegible] on the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, a visit to Brazil, [illegible] view of the grand and sublime scenery in the [illegible], the southern extremity of this continent, [illegible] along the northern shore of Terra [illegible] call on the west coast of South [illegible] Valparaiso the steamer will steam direct [illegible] she will be put on a line to the [illegible] vessel of the same dimensions is to [illegible] for the same end."

[illegible] rated as a first-class steamer of 1,085 [illegible], and of the following dimensions: Length, [illegible] feet; depth of hold, 24 feet, drawing [illegible]. She was built at Bath, Me., and owned [illegible] of that place. She is neatly fitted up, [illegible] first-class state-rooms in the main cabin, [illegible] in the second cabin. She has [illegible] with a 40-inch cylinder and 36-inch stroke [illegible] tubular main boiler, and is capable of [illegible] per hour. It was expected that she [illegible] the run to San Francisco in about 60 steaming [illegible]. [illegible] other first-class steamers are being [illegible] on the Atlantic coast for the coasting trade [illegible] the British possessions and California. As [illegible] the Montana arrives, we are informed from the [illegible] source, she will be placed on the line and [illegible] trip, and through her and the others to be [illegible] this coast we expect better things to be accomplished for the benefit of the Oregon trade, which has [illegible] the location of California for years. Our people [illegible] to give the Montana a welcome [illegible] service in which she proposes to engage.

A NOTED THIEF.—John Hartly, commonly [illegible] Harry, was arrested by Sheriff Stitzel [illegible] Sheriff Arnold at a house of ill-fame in this [illegible] morning about eight o'clock. He is taken [illegible] stealing money from Stage Agent McConnell [illegible]. The money was stolen on Sunday [illegible] following morning. Hartly left for the north, [illegible] by lightning. The lightning getting [illegible] &c." On Thursday night he [illegible] Mr. J. R. Bentley, of Albany, identified the [illegible] was apprehended and taken into custody as [illegible]. The officers represent him as being a very [illegible] and think if they had been forced to arrest him [illegible] or under more favorable circumstances for [illegible] a resistance, that they would have had a [illegible] time with him. He swore dire vengeance [illegible] Bentley for the assistance he had rendered [illegible] the arrest, and threatens that if he [illegible] out of the scrape he will burn Bentley's [illegible] him without house or home. That [illegible] "stick" him for at least the [illegible].

[illegible] JOB PRINTING OFFICE.—The finest styles of [illegible] perhaps, that were ever exhibited on the [illegible] office on this coast, were shown by Mr. A. [illegible] the Farmer establishment in this city, at [illegible] Fair, and yet, strange to say, he is not reported [illegible] taken a premium. He did, however, [illegible] in the Pavillion, his specimens were [illegible] attractive in the class of Arts. We hope [illegible] awards give him credit for the display, [illegible] of beautifully printed stock certificates, [illegible] ornamental; a frame filled with business [illegible] cards and tint work, three frames of [illegible] cards; one beautiful double sheet [illegible], strained glazed and framed; twelve [illegible], and one three-sheet picture of a horse [illegible] of chromatic printing in five colors, [illegible] comprised the lot from that office.

[illegible].—The ladies of this city had an opportunity of inspecting a most gorgeous display of [illegible] Hibbourn & Co.'s auction store on [illegible], which goods are to be sold to-day at auction [illegible] without doubt the finest quality of goods [illegible] have all been made by busy toiling, [illegible] honor. We regret seeing the lot [illegible]. Believing Mad. Winbury, to [illegible] be every way worthy of patronage [illegible] those that she may be able to obtain at [illegible] goods cost her, we should like to see [illegible] to-day. In order that ladies may have [illegible] see the goods, we advise that they go [illegible].

[illegible].—In the list of premiums Mr. A. J. Butler [illegible] about as fine a display as was seen in the [illegible] late State Fair, was classed as being from [illegible]. This is a very great mistake. Mr. Butler [illegible] should know, is proprietor of the [illegible], and manufactory of Portland, and [illegible] the Fair several first and second premiums. [illegible] place of business in this city is now daily [illegible] anxious to obtain the best hats and [illegible].

LADIES.—Whenever the ladies of Portland [illegible], and invite their friends to spend a [illegible], they find all on hand except the Printers, [illegible] early in the morning. On such occasions [illegible] are always remembered. Last night [illegible] went the stick," we heard footsteps [illegible] a committee of ladies and gentlemen [illegible] with their joyful faces, and presented [illegible] with a beautiful supply of nice oyster soup, [illegible] cake, &c., etc. May they never "[illegible]." The "boys" say it is the first [illegible] they have had for a month. Thanks.

[illegible].—Mr. Ad. Miller's black and tan terrier [illegible] let loose in an unoccupied building on Front [illegible] the steamship landing, yesterday, and began [illegible] destruction to the infinite amusement of a [illegible] who peered through the windows. In [illegible] minutes, by the watch, two dogs killed [illegible] rats. The latter rushing out in [illegible] by the force of circumstances [illegible] boxes, lumber, etc., were shaken instantly [illegible] not one escaped.

[illegible] OPERA HOUSE.—This somewhat celebrated [illegible] Oregon street, of passing the high advancing [illegible] within a year, is now again undergoing [illegible] and will come out as a restaurant of the first [illegible]. The upper story is used as saloon [illegible]. The place is in a fine location, and it [illegible] that so many executions should [illegible] the occupants. We trust the future proprietors [illegible] be more successful [illegible] on account of the reverses of for[illegible].

[illegible].—Mr. S. J. McCormick, book publisher of this city, has placed in the hands of the [illegible] ordinances of the city of Portland, [illegible] with the city charter for publication. The work [illegible] of the kind ever brought before the public. The necessity for it has long been [illegible]. He has also in press the preface to [illegible] tables for his annual almanac and will soon [illegible] directory for 1866.

[illegible] CISTERN.—The several fire companies [illegible] last evening, and after laying [illegible] hose, from the hydrant, corner of Wasco [illegible] streets, to the new cistern at the [illegible] Washington streets, proceeded to fill the [illegible] the greatest stretch of hose ever laid in [illegible].

[illegible].—The street works so far as Front street [illegible] and Harrison is concerned, will shortly be [illegible] and but about one block and a half of the [illegible] to be put down to finish that portion of the [illegible]. We have spoken for a team for use on Saturday [illegible].

[illegible] CREEK.—Another mill, if [illegible] soon. The owners we learn are Messrs. [illegible] Company, and the mill will be [illegible] the proprietors are interested in [illegible].

[illegible].—The steamer [illegible] the Willamette river comprises the Echo and Active above the [illegible] the Fannie Troupe below.—Ex.

The Fannie Troupe is plying regularly to her [illegible] in Vancouver, and will not leave it. The boat [illegible] such a report is very [illegible].

[illegible] will sail to-day at [illegible] for Portland.

[illegible] ALL—NEWELL'S PULMONARY SYRUP Cures [illegible] of the Chest and Lungs. A trial will convince [illegible]. It is effective and pleasant. Try it. [illegible] J. J. Newell the originator.

SPEECH OF GEN. LOGAN—HIS OPINIONS ON RESTRICTION AND PARDONS.—General John A. Logan made a speech at [illegible], Illinois, in which he referred to the history of the rebellion, [illegible] rigor and progress, stigmatizing in the severest terms the imbecility and treason of the Buchanan Administration. He referred in strong terms [illegible] principles and [illegible] the Northwest [illegible]. He contrasted the system of warfare pursued by the armies of the Southwest.

He [illegible] that was done by [illegible] putting down of the rebellion, which according to [illegible] was right and [illegible] whom he had [illegible]. He approved of the destruction of rebel property, of the emancipation of the slaves, of the [illegible] of the burning and devastating of the towns and cities that were to rebels [illegible]. There was no [illegible] place [illegible] upon the [illegible] great nation, and that was Kentucky, which was degrading itself in the eyes of the civilized world. He regretted that Kentucky had not gone out [illegible] with the other [illegible], so that they might have made a clean sweep [illegible] from off the entire face of the continent.

He did not believe there was going to be any more fighting [illegible] in the South for some time yet. The chivalry had been thoroughly whipped, [illegible] more backbone left.

With reference to the reconstruction policy pursued by the Government, he said that it was [illegible] experiment, and so long as there was any hope [illegible] he would yield a hearty support to the President. He [illegible], however, that he had [illegible] the wisdom of pardoning rebels by the wholesale. He thought it better to wait and test the sincerity of their repentance. He was opposed to the restoration of the rights of citizenship to men whose [illegible] had hardly been cleansed of the defilement of treason, and whose fingers were yet dripping with the blood of the martyrs of the Union. He would wait and see whether they brought forth fruit meet for repentance, before granting them the privilege of the elective franchise. In concluding a speech of about an hour, he tendered a word of advice to his auditory, and particularly to that portion of it who had borne arms against the rebellion. He referred them to the many mounds scattered over the southern country, which contained the ashes of their slain and martyred comrades, and conjured them by the memories of the dead to be faithful to the Union, and to that portion of the people which had sympathized with them and sustained them in their efforts against treason, and to discard, despise and utterly abhor any overture from any man or party who had either been a peace man or sympathizer with the South during the continuance of the rebellion.

From Japan and China.

The bark Ada, Capt. Burt, arrived at Victoria on the 8th of October from Hakodadi, Japan, having made a run of 31 days. She sailed on the 5th of September, but did not leave the straits until the 19th. At the mouth of the straits encountered a typhoon which lasted 22 hours. The vessel weathered the hurricane without suffering damage. Experienced fine westerly winds across the ocean sighting Cape Classet on the 3d, and carried the breeze right into the straits, when it fell calm, and she was detained four days waiting for a slant to carry her into port.

The Ada brought one passenger from Hakodadi on route to Mexico, Baron Stillfried, Secretary to the Swiss Legation in Japan.

In Japan matters were assuming a more peaceful and satisfactory aspect. The Tycoon and Prince Satsuma were on the eve of adjusting their differences and concluding peace. The [illegible] interruption to commerce at three principal ports of Yokohama, Nangasaki and Hakodadi, and the other ports would probably be soon thrown open to foreign trade. Business of every kind was, however, very dull.

There had been a series of typhoons in the China seas that had caused great loss of life and valuable property. The P. & O. Company's steamer Aden and another called the Santa Clara foundered with all hands. A third steamer, was also lost. They were all coasting. Trade was also very stagnant in the Chinese ports. Ships were loading for England at the miserably low rate of £1 per ton.

The beautiful extract below is from the pen of Hon. George S. Hillard:

I confess that increasing years bring with them an increasing respect for men who do not succeed in life, as those words are commonly used. Heaven is said to be a place for those who have not succeeded upon earth; and it is surely true celestial graces do not best thrive and bloom in the hot blaze of worldly prosperity. Ill success sometimes arises from a superabundance of qualities in themselves good—from a conscience too sensitive, a taste too fastidious, a self-forgetfulness too romantic, a modesty too retiring. I will not go so far as to say, with a living poet, that "the world knows nothing of its greatest men," but there are forms of greatness, or at least excellence, which "die and make no sign;" there are martyrs that miss the palm but not the stake—heroes without the laurel, and conquerors without the triumph.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

PORTLAND, October 13th, 1865.

The chief event of the week past in our commercial intercourse, is to be found in that between this port and Victoria. The arrival of the Active this morning from the latter place is noted in our marine list, and among the articles of import will be observed several barrels of salmon. This is subject to custom dues in like manner as other importations, and the feature to which we would direct attention is the fact that the article of salmon from our waters have been exported to Honolulu at $15 ℔ bbl. While this is imported at a cost of $16 ℔ bbl from the British waters.

As fine catch can be taken in the Columbia as any coming from abroad, and it is a matter of importance that the increasing demand should be supplied by the enterprise of our own people. The finest opportunities for fisheries to be found anywhere in the world, are opened to the enterprising on the Columbia, and its lower tributaries, and requiring no great outlay of capital should they not be improved.

The fruit exported by the Active commanded good prices in Victoria upon being landed, and give some encouragement for future demand. From the semi-monthly trade circular of one of the leading establishments of San Francisco, received during the period under review, we are informed that there is likely to be a better demand for fruit in that market. Should the weather be such as to permit the getting of fruit into the interior of California we have no doubt but that the inquiry would be more general, and have a tendency to quicken the impulse of trade in this respect. But this being so uncertain, the business would be subject to losses and freights would be quite likely to retard the enterprise. It is now asserted that the crop of California has proved to a considerable extent a failure, partly from the fact that the trees shed their fruit early in the season, and mainly from the ravages of a worm that has attacked and nearly ruined many orchards, not only the crop of the present year, but in some localities entirely destroyed the trees.

This suggests the fact that the fruit crop of Oregon may be made profitable for shipment to the California market for many years to come, if not for all time; but in order to ensure this special care should be bestowed upon its culture. Fruit growers should endeavor to learn what are the most desirable varieties for that market, and after giving this subject proper attention give their orchards that culture that will ensure a crop of good fruit. The profit arising from an orchard of ten acres—with care bestowed upon it, as recommended in the foregoing—will exceed that arising from an orchard of fifty acres with that care bestowed [illegible] inferior fruit [illegible].

Domestic Produce Market.

PORTLAND, October 13th, 1865.

The market ranges about the same as for last week. It is impossible as yet, to tell what turn will be taken in the wheat market, but our dealers are governed by the conditions of the California supply, which seems at present to be quite sufficient for the export demand.

Barley is still very scarce and prices are advancing, and this is only upon a steady consumptive demand.

Apples are [illegible] marketing steadily but there is little inquiry for any but the best fall and winter varieties. None but the best fruit will find sale at anything near remunerative rates. Fall apples to-day are selling at 40c, winter 40c, ordinary 30c ℔ bushel.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.
